Regular product exhibits a power output no less than 98% of the nominal peak power specified on the respective datasheet or module label at Standard Testing Conditions (STC, defined as: (a) light spectrum of AM 1.5, (b) an irradiation of 1000 W/m², (c) a cell temperature of 25°C at right angle irradiation.) within the first year from the date of delivery to the end customers but not later than 6 months after delivery to the first purchaser from Autarco, (hereafter referred to as the “warranty start date”), and power output declining by no more than 0.55% per year of the nominal peak power as specified on the respective datasheet at STC from the 2nd year to 25th year. Consequently, at the end of the twenty-fifth year from the “warranty start date”, the modules will still produce a power output of at least 84.8% based on the stated nominal output at STC.

- 2.2. Double glass product exhibits a power output no less than 99% of the nominal peak power specified on the respective datasheet or module label at STC within the first year from the “warranty start date”, and front power output declining by no more than 0.4% per year of the nominal peak power as specified on the respective datasheet at STC from the 2nd year to 30th year. Consequently, at the end of the thirtieth year from the “warranty start date”, the modules will still produce a power output of at least 87.4% based on the stated nominal output at STC.
